

Internal Police Emails Show Efforts to Hide Use of Cell Phone Tracking

The ACLU has just release the results of their latest attempts to uncover the illegal use of Stingray equipment that alleged law enforcement uses to track YOU.

Stingrays are devices that mimic cell towers, so ANYONE in the area where these devices are operating cellphone calls or text messages go though this device. I repeat its ANYONE, that means you as well as the alleged 'criminal' they are attempting to track. They claim it helps solve crimes, however in the process it gathers all your information to. Their argument is totally BOGUS. With today's technology they could easily create a filter system that would lock out any phone numbers that were not suspect related so they would not be recorded. Read about the ACLU's work on this major issue that effects all of our rights here and here.